A tradition in Mexico and Central America that goes back more than 3,000 years, Día de los Muertos is now celebrated around the world and is expressed in art hosted by the Pasadena Tournament of Roses, the hosts of America's New Year Celebration. When it comes to traditions, festivities and flowers – we get the appeal! As an organization that's all about a rose, the Pasadena Tournament of Roses can appreciate that the marigold holds such a prestigious place in this celebration.
